

Enjoli Herot

Wrangler

Psalm 147:3-7

"He heals the brokenhearted and binds up their wounds. He determines the number of the stars and calls them each by name. Great is our Lord and mighty in power; his understanding has no limit. The LORD sustains the humble but casts the wicked to the ground. Sing to the LORD with thanksgiving; make music to our God on the harp."

Discussion for the younger kids:

Have you ever tried to count the stars? If you live in the city you may only see a few, but here at Camp Hebron we can see a lot. But what we can see is only a small number compared to how many God has made, and He has named them ALL! Isn't God cool?!

For Further Discussion:

I find these verses beautiful because they talk about how God is always there for us. In these verses it talks about how God helps those who are going through hard times, and how His understanding is infinite. After that it talks about how he casts down the wicked and lifts up the humble. And finally it says to sing praises to God. I find all of these verses amazing because it tells of how God loves and is there for us in times of hardship, and that even in the hard times we should praise God.

If you would like to ask Enjoli more about her devotional, you can send an email to her at camp.